Lights off! The Berner Group supports the WWF Earth Hour 2018 and takes a stand on climate protection

During the WWF Earth Hour on March 24, 2018, the lights will once again go out at 8:30 p.m. All over the world, people are working together to point the way towards protecting the planet and calling for more climate protection. The Berner Group is supporting the initiative at several locations in Europe.

Showing responsibility towards the environment is firmly anchored in the Berner Group's corporate values. As a result, the lights will be turned off at 8:30 p.m. for one hour at various European locations on March 24 as part of the international WWF Earth Hour. Through its participation, the international corporate group is setting an example for more energy efficiency.

After supporting the local "Hohenlohe turns off the light" campaign last year, the family-owned Berner Group intends to go one step further this year. At many European locations, from Denmark and Germany to Portugal and Spain, the Berner Group is dispensing with logo and exterior lighting for one hour to support the symbolic WWF Earth Hour and climate protection.
